

could live out their lives without oppression, without regimentation, without classes, without regard to race, creed or color--will provide that unity."